

RYAN GINARD CFRE

Ryan Ginard, is a civic connector and fundraiser with over 15 years of experience in government, higher education, nonprofits, and organized philanthropy. An active writer and thinker about future directions in philanthropy, Ryan has authored thought pieces and OP-EDs in numerous national publications and has been a speaker at internationally renowned conferences on new technologies and immersive storytelling.

Ryan continuously scans and ideates what the future of philanthropy might look like in 10 years' time and reverse engineers the tech, trends and talent being predicted to be indicative of a fourth industrial revolution, all while trying to help the sector catch the tailwinds of a historic $68 trillion transfer of wealth.
